50X1-HUM

1. Until recently, Yugoslavia has been divided into six military zones, each of the six armies being tactically responsible for its own area and for the training and administration of all ranks under command.
2. These duties are now, according to a recent General Staff instruction, to be taken over on a higher level, and the country is to be redivided into three, or perhaps only two, military districts or commands, to be known as Vojna Oblast. Each Vojna Oblast will be responsible for two or three armies; it is not yet known whether Vojna Oblast headquarters will have tactical duties. This organization, it is believed, follows the Soviet plan.
3. The present areas of the Second and Fourth Armies are to be amalgamated into one such Vojna Oblast.
4. No alteration is planned at this stage in the air force V.O.K. organization.
